

Adaptive Test Program Generation

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A test program generator that produces test instructions according to a specification of a system being verified. The instructions are typically generated randomly, at least in part, and are then. The system is capable of interpreting events, detecting an impending occurrence of an event, and responding to the event by 10 switching to an alternate input stream.